A little “About Me,” I am a second year finance student. My hope is to help people within corporate law. I plan on pursuing higher education after UNR to get my law degree. My technical background is very minimal. I would say the only time I really deal with tech is at my current job, sales. I mainly use technology to put together deal jackets for work and shop loans through banking websites. I would like to know a lot more than I do. I hope to gain a far more vast understanding of what’s available technologically from this class.

I chose to come to UNR because I was experiencing a lack of fulfillment. I had already started in a “grownup job,” I was a special finance manager for Roseville Toyota straight out of high school and found that the money I gained wasn’t at all fulfilling. Many people had dumped a ton of money and effort into me and I wasn’t doing much with it. After realizing this I immediately applied to about seven schools and chose UNR for the location and environment, plus my best friend lived out here.

My dream would be to be a lawyer and to put my energy into real estate. I want to own my own gym and apartment complex's. I think it would be so fulfilling to be able to say that I am providing housing to so many people. The gym is something that has rescued me multiple times so to be able to give that to someone else would be a dream come true.

In my free time I race motorcycles and drift cars. I work on old Japanese sports cars in any other free time I have. I enjoy physical exercise and adrenaline seeking sports. I also love to travel but lately that has taken a back seat because my job and school have become pretty demanding.
